1.4 Annotations

Our computational linguists added systematic information to the data. These annotations should help you find information more easily and systematically in our corpora, which are non-standard data both because they are dialectal and because they are CMC data. Not all data are available for all languages. Please check the following sections to learn more about the individual annotations:

- Lanaguage annotation per message
- Part of speech annotation
- Normalization (i.e. "translation" to standard language)
